SINGLETON BELL ELECTED JUDGE

Will Have a Plurality of About 2000

RETURNS NOT YET COMPLETE

Bell Carried Three Wards and Smith One—Mitchell Receives Good Vote in Clearfield—Chorpening Re-elected Justice of the Peace Over Connolly.

The counting of the ballots cast at the election on Tuesday is slow, owing to the fact that a large majority of the voters split their tickets. Enough is known at this time to show that Singleton Bell has been elected judge, Oscar Mitchell being second and Allison O. Smith third. Mr. Bell's plurality will be in the neighborhood of 2000.

The indications at this writing are that Welch will be elected district attorney and McCloskey sheriff. It will be late today before the votes for other offices will be tabulated.

Some of the figures, below are some of the figures gleaned from such returns as have been received by telephone and otherwise:

NATIONAL W. C. T. U. IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

Pennsylvania Makes Good Showing at Gathering

The following brief report of the proceedings of the National W. C. T. U. convention, at Asbury Park were furnished the Progress by Mrs. E. J. Bouton, of Clearfield:

The National W. C. T. U. convention, now in session at Asbury Park, N. J., is considered the largest national convention ever held by the union and the largest organized dues-paying in the United States, if not in the world, with a membership of active members of 199,730 in the United States. The W. C. T. U. is doing more work with less money than any other organized body.

Over 600 delegates responded to roll call at the first session of the convention, Pennsylvania taking the prize for the largest increase in membership, having made a gain of 2860 this year. All Pennsylvania delegates are located at the Kenilworth hotel.

The convention was welcomed by the governor of New Jersey, who delivered an able address. He was followed by the mayor of Asbury Park, president of the chamber of commerce, president of the board of education and others.

The World's and the National conventions have declared for world-wide prohibition. Foreign delegates who are in attendance beg the national W. C. T. U. to send missionaries to help them get rid of the demon rum.

SUCCESSFUL HUNTERS

Manager of The Dimeling Has Excellent Luck.

George B. Sheldon, the handsome and youthful manager of the Dimeling, and John Duke went out to the Bigler district Tuesday in search of rabbits, returning with about eight cottontails and several pheasants. Mr. Sheldon claims to have shot three of the rabbits, but the true facts in relation to his hunting trip are not yet in.

Those who viewed the rabbits at the Dimeling Tuesday night had a suspicion that the animals had been in cold storage for sometime before they fell into Mr. Sheldon's hands, but George is ready to make affidavit that he actually shot at the rabbits and they must have been killed by his shot or dropped over head after seeing the peculiar manner in which George held his gun.

THE LAST WEEK

Tabernacle Meetings Will Close at End of Week.

Evangelist Hamilton and Singer Leonard began their last week's meetings at the Glen Richey Tabernacle Tuesday night. There was a full attendance at last night's meeting and a good spirit was manifested. The Evangelist's sermon was found in Eccl. 12:8. "Vanity, of vanity, all is vanity, saith the preacher."

The preacher's theme was a search for happiness by Solomon, king of Israel. He pointed out the futility of money, education, pleasure and fame as objects of pursuit in life, showing that all of them were in themselves alone what the ancient preacher found them to be, but vanity of vanity and vexation of spirit.

The subject for this evening's meeting will be "An Unanswerable Question."

HUERTA LIKELY TO REFUSE DEMANDS

Mexican Dictator Faces Crisis in Total Silence.

WILSON FAVORS CARRANZA.

Foreign Ministers After Conference With Huerta Refuse to Discuss the Situation—With No Money and All Credit Gone Action by Mexican Federalists Must Be Taken Immediately.

AMERICAN FORCES READY FOR A MEXICAN CRISIS.

ARMY.

Infantry—Six regiments at Texas City, four at Galveston and one at Fort Douglas, Utah.
Cavalry—Seven regiments at Forts Bliss, Sam Houston, Clark and McIntosh, in Texas, and Fort Douglas, Utah, and on border patrol.

Artillery—One regiment in Texas City and part of another at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

NAVY.
On Gulf Coast—Battleships Louisiana and Michigan, cruiser Tacoma and gunboat Wheeling at Vera Cruz; battleship New Hampshire at Tampico; battleships Rhode Island, Virginia and New Jersey en route from Hampton Roads for Vera Cruz; battleship Nebraska en route from Hampton Roads for Tampico.

On West Coast—Armored cruiser California and gunboat Annapolis at Guaymas; armored cruiser Maryland at Mazatlan; armored cruiser Pittsburgh en route from San Francisco for Guaymas.

Mexico City, Nov. 5.—President Huerta will probably refuse to yield to the demand of President Wilson that he resign. This is the opinion of men closest to the Mexican dictator, who say his voluntary withdrawal from power in this country would be tantamount to a rebel victory. There is no longer any doubt in Mexico that President Wilson and Secretary Bryan favor Carranza and would like to help him win.

Confusion amounting almost to chaos characterized the situation here when the general public learned that President Wilson had told General Huerta he must get out of office. So far as could be learned Huerta had taken nobody into his confidence, and even his closest advisers professed to be in ignorance of what answer Huerta would make to the Washington government and when he would make it.

Foreign Ministers Silent.
The foreign ministers who went to the national palace at Huerta's invitation were reticent after their visit. It was noticeable that Nelson O'Shaughnessy and the German, Russian and Swedish ministers, who went to Vera Cruz to consult John Lind, were not among those asked to confer with Huerta. Sir Lionel Carden, British minister, and the French and Spanish envoys headed the deputation that went to the palace.

Two courses are plainly open to him, and no more. He must accept the ultimatum of President Wilson and absolutely give up the reins of government, not even leaving General Blanco in power, or he must refuse to obey President Wilson and throw his lot in the face of the United States.

The latter course, say the Mexicans, would almost certainly bring about intervention, the thing that Huerta is said to desire most earnestly to avoid.

The fact is, Huerta is "at the end of his rope." The federal strong box is empty of its last pesos. Business in Mexico City is at a standstill. The merchants have no credit.

President Wilson's demand was submitted Sunday by Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American charge d'affaires, to Senor Rabago, Huerta's private secretary.

Senor Rabago presented the memorandum to his chief late on Sunday, but up to now President Huerta had given no intimation of what his answer would be. So far as could be learned he had guarded its contents from almost all of his official and intimate counselors.

New Haven, Nov. 5.—Friends of Mrs. Bessie J. Wakefield, twenty-four years old, who was convicted of the murder of her husband, William O. Wakefield, at Cheshire, Conn., last June, have launched a determined movement to save her from the gallows. When seen in her cell, the young mother, who is scarcely more than a girl, held no hope of other expiation for her crime than death by the hangman's noose.

"I have given up all hope," she said. "I could die happy if I were only certain that my two little children, Cora Belle, four, and William George, six, will have proper care."

"It drives me almost insane to think that they must go to strangers. I can't sleep nights thinking of it. They were all I had in the world to love."

"I have never known a real home," explained Mrs. Wakefield. "I was one of sixteen children. I was seventeen when I made my first mistake. Perhaps my mother could have prevented it if I had been under her care."

NO CARS IN INDIANAPOLIS.

No Effort to Resume Service Suspended by Strike.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 5.—Special precautions against violence in the street car strike were taken in the fear that additional crowds on the streets due to the partial holiday of election day would result in some serious trouble. Many of the police who have been on their feet most of the time since Friday night rested and almost the full force was on duty later. The special deputies appointed by Sheriff Porttous also prepared to defend the peace.

Robert I. Todd, president of the traction company, said no effort would be made to resume car service.

A special warning was issued by Mayor Shank urging dealers in firearms and keepers of pawn shops to refuse to sell any firearms or ammunition. The mayor warned the public not to approach portions of the city where unruly persons might engage in controversies.

"Women and children especially should not frequent those portions of the city where rioting may be expected," he said.

MISS MILES A SUICIDE.

Greenwich, Conn., Nov. 5.—Miss Gertrude Miles, daughter of the late William B. Miles, New York brewer, was a suicide and did not die of apoplexy, according to the report of Coroner Phelan.

Miss Miles was found on the floor of her room, according to the examiner's report, with a packing cord about her neck and the other end tied to the head of a metal bed. She wore only her night dress.

Good evening! How do you like
your new judge?

THE MEXICAN SITUATION.

It cannot be denied that the situation relative to Mexico is serious. The government at Washington realizes this. The election for president in that disturbed republic resulted in giving President Huerta control of the government, which means a continuance of the internal troubles which have caused the United States government more or less perturbation for many months. Huerta, the assassin, will control the Mexican congress and dictate the policy of the government.

It is predicted that war between the United States and Mexico is inevitable, and preparations made by the army and navy departments would seem to prove the truth of the statement that war will be begun within forty-eight hours. What the result of such a war would be cannot be conjectured, but it is certain that if the United States finds it necessary to interfere in Mexico and put a stop to the chaotic conditions down there a long and bloody struggle would follow.

The Mexicans may fight each other to the last ditch but if another power were to start a war with Mexico it is probable that the Mexicans would unite against what they would regard as the common foe of the republic. An army of invasion would have a difficult task on its hands to conquer the Mexicans, if these were to unite for the time being. If there must be war, however, Uncle Sam should engage in it as a serious matter not as a picnic.

THE RESULT.

With the returns from the election incomplete it is known that Singleton Bell has been elected judge of Clearfield county by a majority ranging from eight hundred to one thousand; that Oscar Mitchell is second and Allison O. Smith third in the race.

The large vote polled by Mr. Mitchell must be gratifying to that gentleman and his friends. Had the election been a week later there is not the least doubt that Mr. Mitchell would have been elected.

Oscar Mitchell has nothing to regret in the manner in which his campaign was conducted. No breath of scandal touched him during the strenuous struggle to win votes in which the three candidates were engaged. He comes out of the campaign with the assurance of the continued confidence and respect of the people, with clean hands and clear conscience.

WHY GAME IS SCARCE.

There are several explanations why wild game is scarce in this state. Some of these explanations are plausible, but none of them is wholly convincing. The statement that the bounty hunter is responsible for the destruction of game is not entirely correct. The bounty hunter, unless he is also a poacher, does not drive all the game out of a district.

Watch the columns of the news papers and you will find there accounts of the big "kills" of city hunters who enter the woods early in the season and remain there until the close. These hunters brag of their skill in shooting the limit of birds or squirrels every day they are in the woods. Clearfield county has been visited by such game butchers, and whole sections of the county have been swept clear of birds and animals. The pot hunter does more to destroy game than does the professional bounty hunter.

The man who kills wild cats, lynx and other beasts which live on game birds is to be commended rather than condemned, for these animals destroy much game in the course of the year. If a law were passed prohibiting pot hunting and limiting the number of birds that may be shot in a day to four and in a season to a dozen there would be less complaint about the scarcity of game.

It sure was a strenuous campaign.

A good many men did not vote as they talked.

In the meantime, prepare for a safe and sane Thanksgiving.

Clean up for the winter and set your neighbor a good example.

Those eight barrels of beer that were sent to Boardman didn't seem to bring the result expected by the consignors.

The Clearfield High school football team is also advertising this town as a place where things are done in the right manner.

Possibly the state fish commission will start to purify the Susquehanna river next spring, in order that the fish which have gone elsewhere may return before next summer.

An Old Time Merman.

An amusing and detailed account of a merman seen in the Atlantic, written apparently in good faith, ends with the following description of the monster, which may possibly have been a seal or a sea lion. "That monster is about eight feet long, his skin is brown and tawny, without any scales, all his motions are like those of men, the eyes are a proportionable size, a little mouth, a large and flat nose, very white teeth, black hair and chin covered with a mossy beard, a sort of whiskers under the nose, the ears like those of men, fins between the fingers of his hands and feet like those of ducks. In a word he is a well shaped man. Which is certified to be true by Captain Oliver Morin and John Martin, pilot, and by the whole crew, consisting of two-and-thirty men." (An article from Bret in the "Memoirs of Trevoux." The monster was mentioned in the Gazette of Amsterdam Oct 12, 1725, where it is said, it was seen in the ocean in August of the same year.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

How to Read the Moon.

Few people can tell at a glance whether the moon is waxing or waning. Here is a whimsical rule to remember by. It is very simple to those who know Latin and is not difficult for those who do not. The first thing is to notice whether the moon is like a D or a C—that is, whether the full semicircular curve is on the right or the left. If the moon shows a D that naturally stands for decreasit. "It wanes."

But then comes the great principle "The moon is always deceitful," and one has to understand the opposite of what the moon says, so that a moon which shows a D is a waxing moon, while a waning moon is like a C.

Those who have no Latin will no doubt look to see whether the moon says it is "decreasing," in which case they will understand that it is waxing, while a waning moon will deny that it is "decreasing."—New York Sun.

STEERS CAUSE PANIC IN NEW YORK STREETS

One Man Killed by Bullet Intended For Animal.

New York, Nov. 4.—In a wild hunt of eight steers, which were shot down and killed by patrolmen in the streets in several places between Fifty-fourth and Eighty-first streets, one man was killed and another wounded, and more than 100 shots were fired, putting scores of persons in danger and terrifying many more. The steers escaped from a stockyard at Sixtieth street and the North river.

A bullet fired by a patrolman killed George Beattie, a watchman in a building in course of construction at No. 24 East Fifty-fifth street. Another stray bullet lodged in the left foot of Walter Wangerheim, in charge of the waiters in the Hotel Gotham. Wangerheim was taken to the Flower hospital.

One of the steers was shot and killed in front of the residence of Cardinal Farley, at No. 452 Madison avenue after twenty bullets had been fired at it by three patrolmen and it had been driven from the entrance to St. Patrick's cathedral.

Patrolman Kelly of the West Sixty-eighth street police station shot and killed two of the steers at Central Park West and Eighty-first street. A third was caught in Eighty-first street, near Central Park West, by Patrolman Messer of the same station. Patrolman King of the arsenal station corralled one of the animals in Central park, near the west drive, at Seventy-third street.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Tendency at Opening is Downward,
Followed by Steadier Tone.

New York, Nov. 3.
So many influences prevailed, exerting a disturbing tendency on financial conditions, that there was little demand for stocks at the start, and some increased pressure was in evidence all through the day. Nearly all the important issues showed losses at the beginning and continued unsettled during the trading.

Mexican Petroleum sustained the greatest loss, falling 3 1/2 points to 15. After a show of pronounced weakness in the early trading a steadier tone developed, and in the late forenoon irregular rallies occurred in nearly all parts of the room. There was no evidence of any heavy selling, the feature being the lack of demand, and it required only moderate pressure to cause sharp recessions. Many stop orders were reached by the initial declines, and it was the execution of these stop orders that caused the extreme low prices. This was the case particularly in Reading, which declined 15 points to 18 1/2, and then rallied one-half point. London was a seller on a fairly large scale of all international issues. Governments were unchanged and other bonds heavy.

Business became small in volume in the late forenoon, only a few issues showing any activity, and with the lessening of trading operations a steadier tone developed. The pressure against Mexican Petroleum ceased for a time. New Haven was exceptionally weak in response to the heavy falling off in earnings, declining 1 1/2 points to 30 1/2.

His Morning Duty.

Ministerial duties and increasing dignity have not robbed a certain minister of his cherished boyhood accomplishment of making fritters. He frequently exercises this skill at breakfast time, much to the delight of the younger members of the family. Edith, the four-year-old daughter, recently took tea with a member of the congregation. After the silent grace the little one, looking at her unmarried hostess, remarked with pity:

"You don't have any one to pray for you, do you?"

Said one of the ladies present, smiling:

"I suppose your papa prays for you three times a day."

"Oh, no, he doesn't," was the innocent and earnest answer. "He prays in the morning and prays in the afternoon!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Common Weakness.

An interesting light is thrown on the purely human side of the late Edward VII. of England by a story told of his inability to resist the temptation to appropriate a particularly good anecdote.

Some one told a delightful story to one of his majesty's young nieces. "That is capital," she said. "I must tell it to the king."

NEW YORK VOTE WAS VERY HEAVY

Less Disorder Marked the Election Than Was Expected.

SULZER VISITED THE SIXTH.

Both McCall and Mitchell Voted Early. Riot in Second District Resulted in Shower of Bad Eggs and Garbage. Six Columbia Students Were Arrested.

New York, Nov. 5.—Election day in New York dawned clear and crisp. It was the end of the bitterest campaign that the city had known for the past twenty years. Up until the very close of the polls both sides expressed the greatest confidence of success.

Voting was heavy throughout the city during the first part of the day. More than half of the registered list had been recorded in ballot form at noon. In many of the election districts the showing was as good as 75 per cent. Everywhere the keen interest, excited by the bitter campaign, manifested itself in the activity around the polling places.

William Sulzer, deposed governor and Progressive candidate for assembly in the sixth district, was on show there during the day. There was a big racket wherever he appeared. Boys blew horns and the cries of women added to the din.

The Republican leaders showed much concern over the statement of the Progressive chairman, Francis W. Bird, that the Progressives claimed Mitchell as their own and that they were in an open fight against the Republicans.

Less Disorder Than Expected.

Disorder was less prevalent than might have been expected, considering the developments of the last two weeks. But very few arrests were made despite the promise held out by the 400 summonses issued at the instance of District Attorney Whitman and the election bureau. The most serious trouble of the early part of the day was the arrest of six students of Columbia university at the instance of Democratic watchers in the nineteenth assembly district. All were discharged when arraigned before a magistrate. The watchers held that the students were not entitled to vote on the ground that the fact of living in the city as they did did not constitute a legal residence.

Near Riot in Second.

The difference between adherents of Tom Foley and the insurgent Home Rule Democratic club culminated in a near riot in the Second assembly district shortly after the polls opened. Eugene Driscoll became involved in a row with men said to be members of the Chick Tricker gang in front of the Home Rule club's quarters at 48 Madison street, and before he got out of the difficulty came in for some rather rough handling.

Clem Driscoll, his brother, was pelted with bad eggs and garbage when he took a hand in the mixup. The Driscoll brothers announced their intention of taking the matter to court. The row promised other developments later in the day.

Watchers were everywhere in evidence to prevent fraud. Women workers mingled in the crowds around the polling places in certain residence sections.

PRINCESS ELIZABETH.

Daughter of Crown Prince of Roumania May Become Bride of Prince of Wales.

Rumors are busy in royal matchmaking circles once more, and many wise heads are coupling the names of the Prince of Wales and Princess Elizabeth of Roumania, daughter of the crown prince. The princess is closely connected with the royal families of Great Britain and Russia and with the Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen family as a granddaughter of the duchess dowager of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha.

BOY'S NECK BROKEN. ON FOOTBALL FIELD

Fullback Gets Fatal Fall; Lingered Three Days.

Phoenixville, Pa., Nov. 5.—George H. Gay of Blackinton, Mass., former star player of the Ursinus college team, died in a hospital here from a broken neck received in a football game last Saturday.

Gay was playing fullback on the Union club team against the Pottstown eleven and was running with the ball when he was tackled from behind. He was thrown heavily and became unconscious. Gay was carried from the field and the game was continued. He showed no improvement, and when an examination was made at the hospital it was found that he was paralyzed, indicating that his spine had been injured.

James Gay, his father, a sister and a brother arrived here and remained with the young man to the end.

Gay was pretty much of an all round athlete. He was a former captain of the Ursinus football team and was captain of the baseball nine last year. He was coach of the soccer team and this year acted as assistant coach of the Ursinus football squad. He had played four years on the football team and was therefore ineligible to play this year.

DEATHS OF A DAY.

Captain Charles I. Gibbs, retired, died at his home in Mattapoisett, Mass., aged seventy-eight. He formerly lived in Brooklyn.

John L. Knapp, twenty-five years an inspector at the New York customs house, died at his home, 439 Bedford avenue, Brooklyn. He was born in Philadelphia, N. Y., of old Revolutionary stock seventy-one years ago.

William Robinson, sixty-three years a resident of Elmhurst, N. Y., died at that place, aged eighty-three. Prior to his recent retirement he was for many years affiliated with the Sampson Oilcloth company at Maspeth, N. Y.

Price Collier, the American author of Tuxedo Park, New York, died suddenly while on a visit to Count Weddel on the island of Funen in the Baltic sea. Mr. Collier had been invited to participate in a shooting party. He was fifty-three years of age.

Frederick A. Haskell, eighty-five, who in his half century of service with the New York Central railroad acted as general freight agent for many years and later as the head of its real estate department, died from general debility at his home in Brooklyn.

Mrs. J. W. Sindall of Baltimore, mother-in-law of John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, dropped dead on the board walk at Atlantic City. Her death was caused by heart trouble. She was returning from mass at the Holy Spirit church and was alone.

Martha A. Morrison, eighty-six, widow of Tom Morrison, who was managing editor of the New York Tribune under Horace Greeley, died at Brooklyn. She was born in the old Greenwich section of Manhattan.

James Stranahan Burke, for more than thirty years secretary and treasurer of the Atlantic Dock company and a nephew of and namesake of James Stranahan, who was once called "the first citizen of Brooklyn," died of apoplexy. Mr. Burke was born in Brooklyn sixty years ago.

The Weather.

Fair and cooler; brisk west to north-west winds.

ELECTIONS HELD ALL OVER NATION

States Choose Governors and Other Officers.

WOMEN OF THE WEST VOTE.

New York City and Philadelphia Elected a Mayor—Jersey Gubernatorial Campaign Proved a Warm Fight. Women in West Prayed for Victory For Prohibition Movement.

Elections were held in several states. The one that attracted most attention perhaps was the mayoralty fight in New York. However, Philadelphia likewise elected a mayor. New Jersey elected a governor. Elections also were held in Maryland, Virginia, Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Maine and other states.

Contest in New Jersey.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 5.—Voting for governor and members of the general assembly was brisk in some parts of New Jersey, but in the greater part of the state it was light.

In certain counties where there were warm contests for state senator and members of the lower house the leaders expected to poll a full vote. The total registration was about 60,000 short of the 420,000 votes cast last fall for the presidential candidates.

Philadelphia's Civic Contest.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—Except in spots the voting was not very heavy in Philadelphia's city election. The voting centered largely about councilmen and the county offices, the reform administration, under the leadership of Mayor Blankenburg, endeavoring to gain through a fusion movement control of city councils.

The weather was fair and warm throughout most of Pennsylvania. The vote for superior court judges on the nonpartisan ballot was light, but in most of the twenty-five cities where so called commission government is to be installed and in certain boroughs where commission government is being voted on the poll was heavy. County judgeship fights in some sections also lived up to the voting.

Bay State Elected Governor.

Boston, Nov. 5.—Rain was falling when the voting began in the annual election of governor and other state officers and members of the legislature.

Indiana Cities Electing.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 5.—Election day in Indiana dawned clear and brisk. Every city and incorporated town in the state voted for municipal officers. In many places the election was complicated by the introduction of citizens' tickets, in addition to the three major party tickets.

Ohio Municipal Contests.

Columbus, O., Nov. 5.—Fine weather and brisk voting marked the elections in this state, at which municipal officers for all cities, towns and villages and several proposed constitutional amendments were voted upon.

The "wet" and "dry" issue attracted much attention, along with three political fights in Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Toledo and other large cities. Representatives of the Anti-Saloon league, ministers, women and young girls were active at many polls in support of the proposed statute to prohibit the shipment of liquor into dry territory.

Toledo, O., Nov. 5.—Congestion of voters at some of the 200 precincts was so great that many voters, after standing in line for long periods, turned away without voting. Registration, including nearly 12,000 women, exceeded all previous records by 10,000.

Voting in Maryland.

Baltimore, Nov. 5.—Balloting in Baltimore proceeded quietly, with fair rapidity. Chief interest in the city centered in the shrievalty contest.

Women Vote in Illinois.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Women voters took part in "wet" and "dry" elections in twenty-four Illinois cities and towns. Results in several of the localities were expected to hinge upon the strength the recently enfranchised voters show in mustering their forces at the polls.

Church services, at which prayers were offered for the success of the "dry" movement, were held by the women in the Duquoin district, which includes Duquoin, Old Duquoin, St. John and Sunfield.

Virginia Voted For One Man.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 5.—Bright, crisp weather opened the day for Virginia's novel election. The balloting was for governor, and there was but one candidate—Henry C. Stuart, a Democrat. The lack of a contest led to a general apathy throughout the state, and a light vote was expected.

No Funds For Arkansas Militia.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 5.—Governor Hayes has received notification from Assistant Secretary of War Breckenridge that the government will give no further aid to the Arkansas militia. As the last legislature refused to make an appropriation for the militia this ends all hope of preserving its organization.

READY TO ARM 500,000 TROOPS

Ordnance Department Fully Works Out Plans.

SUPPLY DEPOTS ARRANGED.

Anticipating Mexican Crisis, Provision For Equipment of Entire Organized Militia Is Made and Regular Army Increased to Full Strength—Concentration Camps Selected

Washington, Nov. 4.—The ordnance department is in readiness at a moment's notice to arm and equip 500,000 men for the field in the event of a war with a first class power. Plans have been worked out during the last six years by Lieutenant Colonel John T. Thompson of the department under the direction of Brigadier General William Crozier, chief of the bureau.

Colonel Thompson points out that his "war plan" is based upon conditions as they would actually exist in the event of hostilities. The line of the regular army would be increased to its maximum enlisted strength as provided for by law. The entire organized militia of the country would be mustered into the service of the United States at full war strength, and the remainder would be ruled by the enlistment of volunteers. The "war plan" as now completed provides that this force shall be armed and equipped at concentration camps before the different units are sent to the scenes of operation.

For coordination tables and maps have been prepared giving for the mobile army and the organized militia for each arm of the service their present strength and the number of troops required to bring each arm to war strength as well as the number and kind of volunteers to be used to complete a half million of troops. The various increases needed in each branch of the service are shown on a map which is divided into five advance supply sections.

Field Supply Depots

The department also has worked out a system of division field supply depots. Each depot has the necessary personnel, tools, ordnance stores and supplies estimated sufficient for maintaining for six months a complete division of infantry or cavalry or one heavy army troops. These division depots are so arranged that several can be readily combined into a field army depot.

The system includes telegrams, letters and various orders, which would need only to be dated and signed in the office of the chief of ordnance in order to set the machinery of equipment in operation. The general staff of the army deems the new "war plan," as applied to ordnance, so valuable in the expeditions placing of properly equipped troops in the field at short notice that it has directed other departments, such as engineers, quartermaster corps, medical department and signal corps to prepare similar systems.

HARVESTER SUIT IN THE U. S. COURT

Arguing Dissolution Case
Against Alleged Trust.

VIOLATES SHERMAN LAW?

Attorney General McReynolds Present at St. Paul to Open For Government in Action to Break Up Big Industrial Combination—Formidable Array of Counsel For the Company.

St. Paul, Nov. 4.—Opposing counsel entered the United States district court here for the final struggle in the government's suit to dissolve the International Harvester company as a monopoly in violation of the Sherman law. Members of the court gathered to hear final arguments in the case filed more than a year and a half ago.

According to an announcement made after the certificate and report of the special examiner, Robert S. Taylor had been returned to the court, counsel for the government occupied the entire day in the presentation of arguments. It was indicated that the brief and argument of the defense might take even longer.

James C. McReynolds, attorney general, Edwin P. Grosvenor, special assistant to the attorney general, and Joseph R. Darling, special agent of the department of justice were in the city to represent the government.

The Harvester company had on hand a formidable array of counsel, including ex-Judge William D. McHugh of Omaha, Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul, Edgar A. Barnard of John P. Wilson, Philip A. Post, Victor A. Remy and W. M. Stillwell, the last five being from Chicago.

The brief of the government in its suit to dissolve as an illegal combination the International Harvester company, made public, was submitted to the United States district court in St. Paul by Attorney General McReynolds. Reciting the history of the organization of the company in 1902, it alleged that the company has controlled since that time about 80 per cent of the trade in the United States in binders, mowers and other agricultural implements and paved the way to grant an injunction against its further continuance.

The suit is regarded as one of the most important undertaken by the department of justice in many years and the attorney general not only wrote the government's brief himself but he and Edwin P. Grosvenor, the special assistant, who prepared the case, appeared in person to make oral arguments before the court.

WILSON FIRM ON CURRENCY BILL

Unwilling to Entertain Suggestion of a Change.

Washington, Nov. 4.—President Wilson's views on the pending banking and currency bill are fixed and most clearly defined. He is indisposed to brook even the suggestion of a change or even to argue a point in the measure. He has indicated to the members of the senate committee on banking and currency that he will hew close to the line and that projected changes in the bill, whether in details or in fundamental provisions, will prove only causes for resentment on the part of the administration.

The amendment vote into the bill by the committee before its adjournment for the election day recess, by which the number of regional banks was reduced from twelve to four, even with the added proviso that at the end of two years the federal reserve board may increase the number to the number of regional banks not acceptable to the administration.

The president has let it be known that the sections of the bill relating to the reserve banks in the new regional units have not been written. He is not in favor of the stock being underwritten by the national banks and compulsion substituted for by the member banks of the new system, the stock to be later owned by such banks.

Bell Carried Three Wards and Smith One—Mitchell Receives Good Vote in Clearfield—Chorpening Re-elected Justice of the Peace Over Connolly.

The counting of the ballots cast at the election on Tuesday is slow, owing to the fact that a large majority of the voters split their tickets. Enough is known at this time to show that Singleton Bell has been elected judge, Oscar Mitchell being second and Allison O. Smith third. Mr. Bell's plurality will be in the neighborhood of 2000.

NATIONAL W. C. T. U. IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

Pennsylvania Makes Good Showing at Gathering

The following brief report of the proceedings of the National W. C. T. U. convention, at Asbury Park were furnished the Progress by Mrs. E. J. Bouton, of Clearfield:

The National W. C. T. U. convention, now in session at Asbury Park, N. J., is considered the largest national convention ever held by the union and the largest organized dupe-paying in the United States, if not in the world, with a membership of active members of 199,730 in the United States. The W. C. T. U. is doing more work with less money than any other organized body.

Over 600 delegates responded to roll call at the first session of the convention, Pennsylvania taking the prize for the largest increase in membership, having made a gain of 2860 this year. All Pennsylvania delegates are located at the Kenilworth hotel.

The convention was welcomed by the governor of New Jersey, who delivered an able address. He was followed by the mayor of Asbury Park, president of the chamber of commerce, president of the board of education and others.

The World's and the National conventions have declared for world-wide prohibition. Foreign delegates who are in attendance beg the national W. C. T. U. to send missionaries to help them get rid of the demon rum.

SUCCESSFUL HUNTERS

Manager of The Dimeling Has Excellent Luck.

George B. Sheldon, the handsome and youthful manager of the Dimeling, and John Duke went out to the Bigler district Tuesday in search of rabbits, returning with about eight cottontails and several pheasants. Mr. Sheldon claims to have shot three of the rabbits, but the true facts in relation to his hunting trip are not yet in.

Those who viewed the rabbits at the Dimeling Tuesday night had a suspicion that the animals had been in cold storage for sometime before they fell into Mr. Sheldon's hands, but George is ready to make affidavit that he actually shot at the rabbits and they must have been killed by his shot or dropped over head after seeing the peculiar manner in which George held his gun.

THE LAST WEEK

Tabernacle Meetings Will Close at End of Week.

Evangelist Hamilton and Singer Leonard began their last week's meetings at the Glen Richey Tabernacle Tuesday night. There was a full attendance at last night's meeting and a good spirit was manifested. The Evangelist's sermon was found in Eccl. 12:8. "Vanity, of vanity, all is vanity, saith the preacher." The preacher's theme was a search for happiness by Solomon, king of Israel. He pointed out the futility of money, education, pleasure and fame as objects of pursuit in life, showing that all of them were in themselves alone what the ancient preacher found them to be, but vanity of vanity and vexation of spirit.

The subject for this evening's meeting will be "An Unanswerable Question."

HUERTA LIKELY TO REFUSE DEMANDS

Mexican Dictator Faces Crisis in Total Silence.

WILSON FAVORS CARRANZA.

Foreign Ministers After Conference With Huerta Refuse to Discuss the Situation—With No Money and All Credit Gone Action by Mexican Federals Must Be Taken Immediately.

AMERICAN FORCES READY FOR A MEXICAN CRISIS.

ARMY.
Infantry—Six regiments at Texas City, four at Galveston and one at Fort Douglas, Utah.

Cavalry—Seven regiments at Forts Bliss, Sam Houston, Clark and McIntosh, in Texas, and Fort Douglas, Utah, and on border patrol.

Artillery—One regiment in Texas City and part of another at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

NAVY.
On Gulf Coast—Battleships Louisiana and Michigan, cruiser Tacoma and gunboat Wheeling at Vera Cruz; battleship New Hampshire at Tampico; battleships Rhode Island, Virginia and New Jersey en route from Hampton Roads for Vera Cruz; battleship Nebraska en route from Hampton Roads for Tampico.

On West Coast—Armored cruiser California and gunboat Annapolis at Guaymas; armored cruiser Maryland at Mazatlan; armored cruiser Pittsburgh en route from San Francisco for Guaymas.

Mexico City, Nov. 5.—President Huerta will probably refuse to yield to the demand of President Wilson that he resign. This is the opinion of men closest to the Mexican dictator, who say his voluntary withdrawal from power in this country would be tantamount to a rebel victory. There is no longer any doubt in Mexico that President Wilson and Secretary Bryan favor Carranza and would like to help him win.

Confusion amounting almost to chaos characterized the situation here when the general public learned that President Wilson had told General Huerta he must get out of office. So far as could be learned Huerta had taken nobody into his confidence, and even his closest advisers professed to be in ignorance of what answer Huerta would make to the Washington government and when he would make it.

Foreign Ministers Silent.
The foreign ministers who went to the national palace at Huerta's invitation were reticent after their visit. It was noticeable that Nelson O'Shaughnessy and the German, Russian and Swedish ministers, who went to Vera Cruz to consult John Lind, were not among those asked to confer with Huerta. Sir Lionel Carden, British minister, and the French and Spanish envoys headed the deputation that went to the palace.

Two courses are plainly open to him, and no more. He must accept the ultimatum of President Wilson and absolutely give up the reins of government, not even leaving General Blanco in power, or he must refuse to obey President Wilson and throw his lot in the face of the United States.

The latter course, say the Mexicans, would almost certainly bring about intervention, the thing that Huerta is said to desire most earnestly to avoid.

The fact is, Huerta is "at the end of his rope." The federal strong box is empty of its last pesos. Business in Mexico City is at a standstill. The merchants have no credit.

President Wilson's demand was submitted Sunday by Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American charge d'affaires, to Senor Rabago, Huerta's private secretary.

Senor Rabago presented the memorandum to his chief late on Sunday, but up to now President Huerta had given no intimation of what his answer would be. So far as could be learned he had guarded its contents from almost all of his official and intimate counselors.

NO CARS IN INDIANAPOLIS.

No Effort to Resume Service Suspended by Strike.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 5.—Special precautions against violence in the street car strike were taken in the fear that additional crowds on the streets due to the partial holiday of election day would result in some serious trouble. Many of the police who have been on their feet most of the time since Friday night rested and almost the full force was on duty later. The special deputies appointed by Sheriff Porttous also prepared to defend the peace.

Robert I. Todd, president of the traction company, said no effort would be made to resume car service.

A special warning was issued by Mayor Shank urging dealers in firearms and keepers of pawn shops to refuse to sell any firearms or ammunition. The mayor warned the public not to approach portions of the city where unruly persons might engage in controversies.

"Women and children especially should not frequent those portions of the city where rioting may be expected," he said.

MAY SAVE MOTHER FROM THE GALLOWS

Friends of Condemned Woman Launch a Movement.

New Haven, Nov. 5.—Friends of Mrs. Bessie J. Wakefield, twenty-four years old, who was convicted of the murder of her husband, William O. Wakefield, at Cheshire, Conn., last June, have launched a determined movement to save her from the gallows. When seen in her cell, the young mother, who is scarcely more than a girl, held no hope of other expiation for her crime than death by the hangman's noose.

"I have given up all hope," she said. "I could die happy if I were only certain that my two little children, Cora Belle, four, and William George, six, will have proper care."

"It drives me almost insane to think that they must go to strangers. I can't sleep nights thinking of it. They were all I had in the world to love."

"I have never known a real home," explained Mrs. Wakefield. "I was one of sixteen children. I was seventeen when I made my first mistake. Perhaps my mother could have prevented it if I had been under her care."

IN STRIPES HE PLEADS.

Prisoner Before Mississippi Supreme Court His Own Counsel.

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 5.—For the first time in the history of the Mississippi supreme court its judges looked down from their bench upon a man dressed in prison stripes and there to plead his own case.

The prisoner, J. G. Bennett, a former newspaper man of Memphis, has served two years of a ten year sentence for bigamy. He pleaded that a lower court judge had erred in refusing to reopen his case. Bennett says he has evidence to prove his innocence.

Carried Red Flag; Arrested.

Good evening! How do you like
your new judge?

THE MEXICAN SITUATION.

It cannot be denied that the situation relative to Mexico is serious. The government at Washington realizes this. The election for president in that disturbed republic resulted in giving President Huerta control of the government, which means a continuance of the internal troubles which have caused the United States government more or less perturbation for many months. Huerta, the assassin, will control the Mexican congress and dictate the policy of the government.

It is predicted that war between the United States and Mexico is inevitable, and preparations made by the army and navy departments would seem to prove the truth of the statement that war will be begun within forty-eight hours. What the result of such a war would be cannot be conjectured, but it is certain that if the United States finds it necessary to interfere in Mexico and put a stop to the chaotic conditions down there a long and bloody struggle would follow.

The Mexicans may fight each other to the last ditch but if another power were to start a war with Mexico it is probable that the Mexicans would unite against what they would regard as the common foe of the republic. An army of invasion would have a difficult task on its hands to conquer the Mexicans, if these were to unite for the time being. If there must be war, however, Uncle Sam should engage in it as a serious matter not as a picnic.

THE RESULT.

With the returns from the election incomplete it is known that Singleton Bell has been elected judge of Clearfield county by a majority ranging from eight hundred to one thousand; that Oscar Mitchell is second and Allison O. Smith third in the race.

The large vote polled by Mr. Mitchell must be gratifying to that gentleman and his friends. Had the election been a week later there is not the least doubt that Mr. Mitchell would have been elected.

Oscar Mitchell has nothing to regret in the manner in which his campaign was conducted. No breath of scandal touched him during the strenuous struggle to win votes in which the three candidates were engaged.
He comes out of the campaign with the assurance of the continued confidence and respect of the people, with clean hands and clear conscience.

WHY GAME IS SCARCE.

There are several explanations why wild game is scarce in this state.
Some of these explanations are plausible, but none of them is wholly convincing. The statement that the bounty hunter is responsible for the destruction of game is not entirely correct. The bounty hunter, unless he is also a poacher, does not drive all the game out of a district.

Watch the columns of the newspapers and you will find there accounts of the big "kills" of city hunters who enter the woods early in the season and remain there until the close. These hunters brag of their skill in shooting the limit of birds or squirrels every day they are in the woods. Clearfield county has been visited by such game butchers, and whole sections of the county have been swept clear of birds and animals. The pot hunter does more to destroy game than does the professional bounty hunter.

The man who kills wild cats, lynx and other beasts which live on game birds is to be commended rather than condemned, for these animals destroy much game in the course of the year.
If a law were passed prohibiting pot hunting and limiting the number of birds that may be shot in a day to four and in a season to a dozen there would be less complaint about the scarcity of game.

It sure was a strenuous campaign.

A good many men did not vote
as they talked.

In the meantime, prepare for a safe and sane Thanksgiving.

Clean up for the winter and set your neighbor a good example.

Those eight barrels of beer that were sent to Boardman didn't seem to bring the result expected by the consignors.

The Clearfield High school football team is also advertising this town as a place where things are done in the right manner.

Possibly the state fish commission will start to purify the Susquehanna river next spring, in order that the fish which have gone elsewhere may return before next summer.

An Old Time Merman.

An amusing and detailed account of a merman seen in the Atlantic, written apparently in good faith, ends with the following description of the monster, which may possibly have been a seal or a sea lion. "That monster is about eight feet long, his skin is brown and tawny, without any scales, all his motions are like those of men, the eyes are a proportionable size, a little mouth, a large and flat nose, very white teeth, black hair and chin covered with a mossy beard, a sort of whiskers under the nose, the ears like those of men, fins between the fingers of his hands and feet like those of ducks. In a word he is a well shaped man. Which is certified to be true
by Captain Oliver Morin and John Martin, pilot, and by the whole crew, consisting of two-and-thirty men." (An article from Bret in the "Memoirs of Trevoux." The monster was mentioned in the Gazette of Amsterdam Oct 12, 1725, where it is said, it was seen in the ocean in August of the same year.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

How to Read the Moon.

Few people can tell at a glance whether the moon is waxing or waning. Here is a whimsical rule to remember by. It is very simple to those who know Latin and is not difficult for those who do not. The first thing is to notice whether the moon is like a D or a C—that is, whether the full semicircular curve is on the right or the left. If the moon shows a D that naturally stands for decreasit. "It wanes."

But then comes the great principle
"The moon is always deceitful," and one has to understand the opposite of what the moon says, so that a moon which shows a D is a waxing moon, while a waning moon is like a C.

Those who have no Latin will no doubt look to see whether the moon says it is "decreasing," in which case they will understand that it is waxing, while a waning moon will deny that it is "decreasing."—New York Sun.

STEERS CAUSE PANIC IN NEW YORK STREETS

One Man Killed by Bullet Intended For Animal.

New York, Nov. 4.—In a wild hunt of eight steers, which were shot down and killed by patrolmen in the streets in several places between Fifty-fourth and Eighty-first streets, one man was killed and another wounded, and more than 100 shots were fired, putting scores of persons in danger and terrifying many more. The steers escaped from a stockyard at Sixtieth street and the North river.

A bullet fired by a patrolman killed
George Beattie, a watchman in a building in course of construction at No.
24 East Fifty-fifth street. Another stray bullet lodged in the left foot of Walter Wangerheim, in charge of the waiters in the Hotel Gotham. Wan-gerheim was taken to the Flower hospital.

One of the steers was shot and killed in front of the residence of Cardinal Farley, at No. 452 Madison avenue after twenty bullets had been fired at it by three patrolmen and it had been driven from the entrance to St. Patrick's cathedral.

Patrolman Kelly of the West Sixty-eighth street police station shot and killed two of the steers at Central Park West and Eighty-first street. A third was caught in Eighty-first street, near Central Park West, by Patrolman Mes-sol of the same station. Patrolman King of the arsenal station corralled
one of the animals in Central park, near the west drive, at Seventy-third street.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Tendency at Opening is Downward,
Followed by Steadier Tone.

New York, Nov. 3.
So many influences prevailed, exerting a disturbing tendency on financial conditions, that there was little demand for stocks at the start, and some increased pressure was in evidence all through the day. Nearly all the important issues showed losses at the beginning and continued unsettled during the early trading.
Mexican Petroleum sustained the greatest loss, falling 3 1/2 points to 15.

After a show of pronounced weakness in the early trading a steadier tone developed, and in the late forenoon irregular rallies occurred in nearly all parts of the room. There was no evidence of any heavy selling, the feature being the lack of demand, and it required only moderate pressure to cause sharp recessions. Many stop orders were reached by the initial declines, and it was the execution of these stop orders that caused the extreme low prices. This was the case particularly in Reading, which declined 15 points to 18 1/2, and then rallied one-half point. London was a seller on a fairly large scale of all international issues. Governments were unchanged and other bonds heavy.

Business became small in volume in the late forenoon, only a few issues showing any activity, and with the lessening of trading operations a steadier tone developed.
The pressure against Mexican Petroleum ceased for a time. New Haven was exceptionally weak in response to the heavy falling off in earnings, declining 1 1/2 points to 30 1/2.

"A PUBLIC LIBRARY FOR CLEARFIELD. WHY NOT?"

A question the womans club has been agitating for some time.

Friday evening, Mr. Bliss, Secretary of the Library Commission in Harrisburg, came to Clearfield to help answer that question. He spent Saturday in town looking over the situation and talking to people who are interested in "The Best for Clearfield" and the Library in particular. Saturday afternoon he met with the executive Board of the Womans Club and reported his findings. In view of what towns no larger than Clearfield, have done and the interest shown by our public spirited citizens, the Womans Club feels very much encouraged and hope that a good Public Library will soon be among the advantages of which Clearfield can boast.

His Morning Duty.

Ministerial duties and increasing dignity have not robbed a certain minister of his cherished boyhood accomplishment of making fritters. He frequently exercises this skill at breakfast time, much to the delight of the younger members of the family. Edith, the four-year-old daughter, recently took tea with a member of the congregation. After the silent grace the little one, looking at her unmarried hostess, remarked with pity:

"You don't have any one to pray for you, do you?"

Said one of the ladies present, smiling:

"I suppose your papa prays for you three times a day."

"Oh, no, he doesn't," was the innocent and earnest answer. "He prays in the morning and prays in the afternoon!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Common Weakness.

An interesting light is thrown on the purely human side of the late Edward VII. of England by a story told of his inability to resist the temptation to appropriate a particularly good anecdote.

Some one told a delightful story to one of his majesty's young nieces. "That is capital," she said. "I must tell it to the king."

NEW YORK VOTE WAS VERY HEAVY

Less Disorder Marked the Election Than Was Expected.

SULZER VISITED THE SIXTH.

Both McCall and Mitchell Voted Early. Riot in Second District Resulted in Shower of Bad Eggs and Garbage. Six Columbia Students Were Arrested.

New York, Nov. 5.—Election day in New York dawned clear and crisp. It was the end of the bitterest campaign that the city had known for the past twenty years. Up until the very close of the polls both sides expressed the greatest confidence of success.

Voting was heavy throughout the city during the first part of the day. More than half of the registered list had been recorded in ballot form at noon. In many of the election districts the showing was as good as 75 per cent. Everywhere the keen interest, excited by the bitter campaign, manifested itself in the activity around the polling places.

William Sulzer, deposed governor and Progressive candidate for assembly in the sixth district, was on show there during the day. There was a big racket wherever he appeared. Boys blew horns and the cries of women added to the din.

The Republican leaders showed much concern over the statement of the Progressive chairman, Francis W. Bird, that the Progressives claimed Mitchell as their own and that they were in an open fight against the Republicans.

Less Disorder Than Expected.

Disorder was less prevalent than might have been expected, considering the developments of the last two weeks. But very few arrests were made despite the promise held out by the 400 summonses issued at the instance of District Attorney Whitman and the election bureau. The most serious trouble of the early part of the day was the arrest of six students of Columbia university at the instance of Democratic watchers in the nineteenth assembly district. All were discharged when arraigned before a magistrate. The watchers held that the students were not entitled to vote on the ground that the fact of living in the city as they did did not constitute a legal residence.

Near Riot in Second.

The difference between adherents of Tom Foley and the insurgent Home Rule Democratic club culminated in a near riot in the Second assembly district shortly after the polls opened. Eugene Driscoll became involved in a row with men said to be members of the Chick Tricker gang in front of the Home Rule club's quarters at 48 Madison street, and before he got out of the difficulty came in for some rather rough handling.

Clem Driscoll, his brother, was pelted with bad eggs and garbage when he took a hand in the mixup. The Driscoll brothers announced their intention of taking the matter to court. The row promised other developments later in the day.

Watchers were everywhere in evidence to prevent fraud. Women workers mingled in the crowds around the polling places in certain residence sections.

PRINCESS ELIZABETH.

Daughter of Crown Prince of Roumania May Become Bride of Prince of Wales.

Rumors are busy in royal matchmaking circles once more, and many wise heads are coupling the names of the Prince of Wales and Princess Elizabeth of Roumania, daughter of the crown prince. The princess is closely connected with the royal families of Great Britain and Russia and with the Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen family as a granddaughter of the duchess dowager of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha.

BOY'S NECK BROKEN. ON FOOTBALL FIELD

Fullback Gets Fatal Fall; Lingered Three Days.

Phoenixville, Pa., Nov. 5.—George H. Gay of Blackinton, Mass., former star player of the Ursinus college team, died in a hospital here from a broken neck received in a football game last Saturday.

Gay was playing fullback on the Union club team against the Pottstown eleven and was running with the ball when he was tackled from behind. He was thrown heavily and became unconscious. Gay was carried from the field and the game was continued. He showed no improvement, and when an examination was made at the hospital it was found that he was paralyzed, indicating that his spine had been injured.

James Gay, his father, a sister and a brother arrived here and remained with the young man to the end.

Gay was pretty much of an all round athlete. He was a former captain of the Ursinus football team and was captain of the baseball nine last year. He was coach of the soccer team and this year acted as assistant coach of the Ursinus football squad. He had played four years on the football team and was therefore ineligible to play this year.

DEATHS OF A DAY.

Captain Charles I. Gibbs, retired, died at his home in Mattapoisett, Mass., aged seventy-eight. He formerly lived in Brooklyn.

John L. Knapp, twenty-five years an inspector at the New York customs house, died at his home, 439 Bedford avenue, Brooklyn. He was born in Philadelphia, N. Y., of old Revolutionary stock seventy-one years ago.

William Robinson, sixty-three years a resident of Elmhurst, N. Y., died at that place, aged eighty-three. Prior to his recent retirement he was for many years affiliated with the Sempson Oilcloth company at Maspeth, N. Y.

Price Collier, the American author of Tuxedo Park, New York, died suddenly while on a visit to Count Weddel on the island of Funen in the Baltic sea. Mr. Collier had been invited to participate in a shooting party. He was fifty-three years of age.

Frederick A. Haskell, eighty-five, who in his half century of service with the New York Central railroad acted as general freight agent for many years and later as the head of its real estate department, died from general debility at his home in Brooklyn.

Mrs. J. W. Sindall of Baltimore, mother-in-law of John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, dropped dead on the board walk at Atlantic City. Her death was caused by heart trouble. She was returning from mass at the Holy Spirit church and was alone.

Martha A. Morrison, eighty-six, widow of Tom Morrison, who was managing editor of the New York Tribune under Horace Greeley, died at Brooklyn. She was born in the old Greenwich section of Manhattan.

James Stranahan Burke, for more than thirty years secretary and treasurer of the Atlantic Dock company and a nephew of and namesake of James Stranahan, who was once called "the first citizen of Brooklyn," died of apoplexy. Mr. Burke was born in Brooklyn sixty years ago.

The Weather.

Fair and cooler; brisk west to north-west winds.

ELECTIONS HELD ALL OVER NATION

States Choose Governors and Other Officers.

WOMEN OF THE WEST VOTE.

New York City and Philadelphia Elected a Mayor—Jersey Gubernatorial Campaign Proved a Warm Fight. Women in West Prayed for Victory For Prohibition Movement.

Elections were held in several states. The one that attracted most attention perhaps was the mayoralty fight in New York. However, Philadelphia likewise elected a mayor. New Jersey elected a governor. Elections also were held in Maryland, Virginia, Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Maine and other states.

Contest in New Jersey.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 5.—Voting for governor and members of the general assembly was brisk in some parts of New Jersey, but in the greater part of the state it was light.

In certain counties where there were warm contests for state senator and members of the lower house the leaders expected to poll a full vote. The total registration was about 60,000 short of the 420,000 votes cast last fall for the presidential candidates.

Philadelphia's Civic Contest.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—Except in spots the voting was not very heavy in Philadelphia's city election. The voting centered largely about councilmen and the county offices, the reform administration, under the leadership of Mayor Blankenburg, endeavoring to gain through a fusion movement control of city councils.

The weather was fair and warm throughout most of Pennsylvania. The vote for superior court judges on the nonpartisan ballot was light, but in most of the twenty-five cities where so called commission government is to be installed and in certain boroughs where commission government is being voted on the poll was heavy. County judgeship fights in some sections also lived up to the voting.

Bay State Elected Governor.

Boston, Nov. 5.—Rain was falling when the voting began in the annual election of governor and other state officers and members of the legislature.

Indiana Cities Electing.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 5.—Election day in Indiana dawned clear and brisk. Every city and incorporated town in the state voted for municipal officers. In many places the election was complicated by the introduction of citizens' tickets, in addition to the three major party tickets.

Ohio Municipal Contests.

Columbus, O., Nov. 5.—Fine weather and brisk voting marked the elections in this state, at which municipal officers for all cities, towns and villages and several proposed constitutional amendments were voted upon.

The "wet" and "dry" issue attracted much attention, along with three political fights in Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Toledo and other large cities. Representatives of the Anti-Saloon league, ministers, women and young girls were active at many polls in support of the proposed statute to prohibit the shipment of liquor into dry territory.

Toledo, O., Nov. 5.—Congestion of voters at some of the 200 precincts was so great that many voters, after standing in line for long periods, turned away without voting. Registration, including nearly 12,000 women, exceeded all previous records by 10,000.

Voting in Maryland.

Baltimore, Nov. 5.—Balloting in Baltimore proceeded quietly, with fair rapidity. Chief interest in the city centered in the shrievalty contest.

Women Vote in Illinois.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Women voters took part in "wet" and "dry" elections in twenty-four Illinois cities and towns. Results in several of the localities were expected to hinge upon the strength the recently enfranchised voters show in mustering their forces at the polls.

Church services, at which prayers were offered for the success of the "dry" movement, were held by the women in the Duquoin district, which includes Duquoin, Old Duquoin, St. John and Sunfield.

Virginia Voted For One Man.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 5.—Bright, crisp weather opened the day for Virginia's novel election. The balloting was for governor, and there was but one candidate—Henry C. Stuart, a Democrat. The lack of a contest led to a general apathy throughout the state, and a light vote was expected.

No Funds For Arkansas Militia.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 5.—Governor Hayes has received notification from Assistant Secretary of War Breckenridge that the government will give no further aid to the Arkansas militia. As the last legislature refused to make an appropriation for the militia this ends all hope of preserving its organization.

READY TO ARM 500,000 TROOPS

Ordnance Department Fully Works Out Plans.

SUPPLY DEPOTS ARRANGED.

Anticipating Mexican Crisis, Provision For Equipment of Entire Organized Militia Is Made and Regular Army Increased to Full Strength—Concentration Camps Selected

Washington, Nov. 4.—The ordnance department is in readiness at a moment's notice to arm and equip 500,000 men for the field in the event of a war with a first class power. Plans have been worked out during the last six years by Lieutenant Colonel John T. Thompson of the department under the direction of Brigadier General William Crozier, chief of the bureau.

Colonel Thompson points out that his "war plan" is based upon conditions as they would actually exist in the event of hostilities. The line of the regular army would be increased to its maximum enlisted strength as provided for by law. The entire organized militia of the country would be mustered into the service of the United States at full war strength, and the remainder would be ruled by the enlistment of volunteers. The "war plan" as now completed provides that this force shall be armed and equipped at concentration camps before the different units are sent to the scenes of operation.

For coordination tables and maps have been prepared giving for the mobile army and the organized militia for each arm of the service their present strength and the number of troops required to bring each arm to war strength as well as the number and kind of volunteers to be used to complete a half million of troops. The various increases needed in each branch of the service are shown on a map which is divided into five ordnance supply sections.

Field Supply Depots

The department also has worked out a system of division field supply depots. Each depot has the necessary personnel, tools, ordnance stores and supplies estimated sufficient for maintaining for six months a complete division of infantry or cavalry or one heavy army troops. These division depots are so arranged that several can be readily combined into a field army depot.

The system includes telegrams, letters and various orders, which would need only to be dated and signed in the office of the chief of ordnance in order to set the machinery of equipment in operation. The general staff of the army deems the new "war plan," as applied to ordnance, so valuable in the expeditions placing of properly equipped troops in the field at short notice that it has directed other departments, such as engineers, quartermaster corps, medical department and signal corps to prepare similar systems.

HARVESTER SUIT IN THE U. S. COURT

Arguing Dissolution Case
Against Alleged Trust.

VIOLATES SHERMAN LAW?

Attorney General McReynolds Present at St. Paul to Open For Government in Action to Break Up Big Industrial Combination—Formidable Array of Counsel For the Company.

St. Paul, Nov. 4.—Opposing counsel entered the United States district court here for the final struggle in the government's suit to dissolve the International Harvester company as a monopoly in violation of the Sherman law. Members of the court gathered to hear final arguments in the case filed more than a year and a half ago.

According to an announcement made after the certificate and report of the special examiner, Robert S. Taylor had been returned to the court, counsel for the government occupied the entire day in the presentation of arguments. It was indicated that the brief and argument of the defense might take even longer.

James C. McReynolds, attorney general, Edwin P. Grosvenor, special assistant to the attorney general, and Joseph R. Darling, special agent of the department of justice were in the city to represent the government.

The Harvester company had on hand a formidable array of counsel, including ex-Judge William D. McHugh of Omaha, Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul, Edgar A. Barnard of John P. Wilson, Philip A. Post, Victor A. Remy and W. M. Stillwell, the last five being from Chicago.

The brief of the government in its suit to dissolve as an illegal combination the International Harvester company, made public, was submitted to the United States district court in St. Paul by Attorney General McReynolds. Reciting the history of the organization of the company in 1902, it alleged that the company has controlled since that time about 80 per cent of the trade in the United States in binders, mowers and other agricultural implements and proved the court to grant an injunction against its further continuance.

The suit is regarded as one of the most important undertaken by the department of justice in many years and the attorney general not only wrote the government's brief himself but he and Edwin P. Grosvenor, the special assistant, who prepared the case, appeared in person to make oral arguments before the court.

WILSON FIRM ON CURRENCY BILL

Unwilling to Entertain Suggestion of a Change.

Washington, Nov. 4.—President Wilson's views on the pending banking and currency bill are fixed and most clearly defined. He is indisposed to brook even the suggestion of a change or even to argue a point in the measure. He has indicated to the members of the senate committee on banking and currency that he will hew close to the line and that projected changes in the bill, whether in details or in fundamentals, will prove only causes for resentment on the part of the administration.

The amendment vote into the bill by the committee before its adjournment for the election day recess, by which the number of regional banks was reduced from twelve to four, even with the added proviso that at the end of two years the federal reserve board may increase the number to the number of regional banks not acceptable to the administration.

The president has let it be known that the terms of the bill relating to the federal reserve banks in the new regional units have not been written. He is not in favor of the stock being underwritten by the national banks and compulsion substituted for by the member banks of the new system, the stock to be later owned by such banks.
